DANCE AWAY

By Bianca Alcaide

offering free classes from hip-hop, ballroom, pole dancing, aerial yoga and many more! We got in touch with the founder James, to give us an in depth insight on what to expect in their dance class.

IS THIS THE FIRST TIME THAT YOU HAVE ORGANIZED A FREE DANCE CLASS?

This is our third year of offering this and it is becoming more popular year on year. This time round, we've had dance classes fill up in less than twenty four hours and have already had to add more classes to the schedule.

WHAT KIND OF DANCE CLASSES ARE YOU OFFERING AND DO THEY CATER TO ALL AGES?

We are offering all the classes that are normally on offer at the studio, for both adults and children. Everything from ballet, contemporary and hip hop to salsa, ballroom, aerial yoga and many others, you can take a class as young as two years of age. We have no upper age limit with our adult classes, so it really is open to everyone who wants to learn.

Are you bored of your same old routine every day? Are you thinking of how you can up your game to add some spice in your life without spending anything? Is spending nothing at all even possible these days?

I'm thinking you said no to all these questions, but in this case, it's a big YES! From September 5 -10, James & Alex Dance Studios are

WHAT IS YOUR AIM ON ORGANIZING FREE DANCE CLASSES?

We are trying to get new people into dance and also to promote the fact that Dubai has many dance classes to offer, which are open to all levels of dancers and taught by fantastic instructors. This week is a great way to see all the classes we have to offer and also to meet our instructors.

WHAT IS DIFFERENT IN JAMES & ALEX DANCE STUDIOS?

Since we have opened James & Alex Dance Studios, we have always focused on bringing the best instructors we can find and on offering classes at affordable rates. We have a great line-up of talent who will bring out the best in anyone willing to learn. Moreover, dance classes are a great way to socialize, have a bit of fun, and of course, get some exercise. This could be the start of a new journey, so why not come along and give it a go.

James & Alex Dance Studios is located in Concord Tower in Dubai Media City which is very accessible to the Tram too! So there's no excuse for you not to go and have fun! So what are you waiting for? It's time to bring those endorphins to life, simply visit their website www.jamesandalex.com for more details.

SPONGEBOB UNFOLD LIVE ON STAGE

By Sarah Al Hoshi

Dubai Summer Surprises visitors dive into the underwater adventures of SpongeBob SquarePants, Patrick Star, Squidward Tentacles and Plankton.

Taking place as part of the 18th edition of Dubai Summer Surprises (DSS), organised by the Dubai Festivals and Retail Establishment (DFRE), an agency of the Department of Tourism and Commerce Marketing (DTCM), 'Stories of SpongeBob – Live on Stage' at Dubai Marina Mall is turning out to be a fantastic treat for all the little shoppers and their families thronging the mall for amazing DSS discounts.

Children's favourite yellow sea sponge character SpongeBob SquarePants and his pals including Patrick Star, Squidward Tentacles and the antagonist Plankton are making a splash at the mall as they bring their underwater adventures to life in Dubai as part of the on-going DSS celebrations.

As part of the fun-filled act, kids are joining storyteller pirates who are magically transporting them to SpongeBob's sea world by narrating the sagas of his many adventures. Kids are also getting the chance to witness amazing sea antics between the adorable SpongeBob and his best friend Patrick Star – the hilarious pink starfish.

Numerous kids are also rushing to meet their beloved characters after the show to snap pictures and get up close and personal with their cartoon favourites, during a special meet-and-greet session.

Taking place under the theme "45 Days of Summer", DSS 2015 is now in its final stretch and will conclude on 5 September after offering families from around the world a packed calendar of shopping and entertainment experiences as well as many winning opportunities.

MOVIE NIGHT

Volunteer work is increasing in the UAE. People are becoming more conscious about the importance of helping others in order to promote equality and unity among the community. Shukran workers is a non-profit organization based in Dubai which aims to bring together the community of laborers and domestic workers by providing unique and memorable experiences.

Following the success of their previous movie nights, Shukran Workers announces another series in Dubai.

Prakarti Lakhwani, co-founder of Shukran Workers says that, "A movie is a form of entertainment and it is this simple pleasure that we want to recreate for them, giving every member of our society a chance to give back."

"Shukran Workers is our brain child, which we created with the sole purpose to give back to the community in the most fun & simple ways," adds Mohit Bhojwani, co-founder of Shukran Workers. The voluntary group currently runs events for construction workers & domestic workers every season.

As part of the movie night series Shukran Workers have organized a movie night last August 28th and September 4th and they have one more left for in this series, which will take place on the 11th. Each session showcases movies of different languages (Hindi and English). The event which was first created in April 2015 was able to attract a full house, revealing the need to continue to arrange regular events and to reach out to all communities of workers in Dubai. Shukran Workers also announced their plans to organize various events designed to bring a smile to the faces of the workers and encourage the community to participate.

The movie night taking place on the 11th of September is for the Domestic Workers, and will be taking place at the Holiday Inn Bur Dubai, which will cater specifically for the female workers, where they will be provided with free dinner and a goodie bag, all thanks to the generous sponsors of the event. You can register yourself or your domestic helper for free, by calling 050 135 1256 or visiting their Facebook page www.facebook.com/Shukranworkers

BARBIE WORLD

By: Abigail Barbasa

Monique Lhuillier, 2006

Barbie! Did your childhood years flash back when you read that? Well I know mine did when I heard that Mall of the Emirates teamed up with Barbie in celebration of the establishment's 10th anniversary! Decked out in designer clothing and adorned with matching jewellery and accessories, the world's most iconic doll takes the spotlight at the first ever haute couture Barbie® Collector exhibition in the region. Of course I just had to see it for myself and you can too until the 8th of September!

The collection features 24 limited-edition Barbie® dolls each in stunning hand-crafted designer outfits inspired by signature looks from iconic catwalk shows over the past 50 years.

I managed to chat with Barbie spokesperson Jagoda Rozkrut about the iconic dolls and here's what she has to say about them. But before that, I'm going to tell you now; these beautiful babies are unfortunately not for sale. According to her, "These are collector dolls from private collections which were introduced to the market through collaborations. These are official collaborations between Barbie and fashion designers. They were produced in very limited number of pieces and they've been collected through many years." These dolls were produced in less than 900 pieces each worldwide, although it also depends on the doll of course, as some of it were produced in quantities much less than that.

The collection was a bit diverse so I had to ask her about the selection process, she said "First we looked into which dolls were available for us and from there we chose the dolls which reflect the designers which are housed here in Mall of the Emirates. We really wanted it to be in tie up with the mall."

The belle of the ball would be Barbie in renowned Middle Eastern designer Zuhair Murad's black and nude piece undoubtedly. But the collection also features outfits from other notable fashion houses such as Hervé Léger, Christian Dior, Oscar de la Renta, Monique Lhuillier, Versace and Christian Louboutin. I personally had my dubs on Barbie in Kate Spade ensemble because it came with a puppy!

Our little chat concluded on a note that as she puts it, "We need to remember that Barbie is so important for girls because it gives the girls the opportunity to be anything they want through role play. There is a lot of going on for Barbie and a lot more is going to happen in the future. This year we introduced to the market a collection of diverse Fashionista dolls which express the world girls sees around them and the changing cultural landscape. The dolls have a various variety of skin tones, colour of the eyes, hairstyles and outfits so girls can really express themselves through fashion."

Since her original introduction in 1959, Barbie has evolved to represent more than 40 different nationalities with various eye and hair colours and skin tones. Changing the way we usually perceive the iconic fashion doll as a fair skinned blonde or brunette.

For those like me who grew up with a Barbie in hand, it's a perfect chance to reminisce those childhood times. The little ones on the other hand, can experience the glamorous world of the modern-day rock star with Barbie® Rock'n Royals from the 9th of September until the 14th. Young girls can get all glammed up and sparkly with nail art and temporary motif tattoos at the Barbie Hand Spa. They can also pretend to be a pop star for a day with their group of friends getting ready for a stage show.

BONJOUR!

What: La Serre Bistro & Boulangerie Where: Vida Hotel, Downtown Dubai

want to, without it being too soggy or salty. We also tried their Smoked salmon bagel with cream cheese, which if you're not a big eater, is good enough for two persons. It was crunchy, yet soft and the contrast of the flavours was just flawless. We were advised to try their granola and French toast, which were a perfect match, the granola itself were marinated in honey, which makes it perfect and sweet within itself, I preferred it with a scoop of yogurt. The French toast was just right, with its crunchy exterior and soft caramelized bread.

This place is definitely a great place to hang out, relax and enjoy some quality time with your loved ones. It's also a great way to make the most out of your day, as you can head over to Dubai Mall after your meal.

Weekends are always something we look forward to; it's the days we get to relax, sleep in and lounge around the house all day. It's also the days we get to bond more with the people we love, whether it's our parents, friends, or loved ones; it's the perfect opportunity to unwind after a stressful week at work, and to catch up on stories or gossip. One way to do this, is to have a nice Friday breakfast or brunch, and what better way to ensure that it's stress free, than to pick the perfect place.

The things to look out for are a perfect ambience, good food and of course a great location for 'Instagram worthy' images, after all a good picture is the right way to capture a moment. It's also a great way to share that delicious food you'll be feasting on. We've got the perfect spot for you, as La Serre Bistro and Boulangerie cover all of that, and more!

Stepping into the Parisian-style cafe, it's as if we stepped out of Dubai, with its white walls, marbled countertops and rustic tables and chairs and with fresh pastries displayed casually, we knew the moment we stepped in that we were going to have a relaxing breakfast. It also helps that they have one side of glassed wall, which really brightens up the place, bringing in a lot of natural light. Their breakfast menu isn't overwhelming; they have just the right amount of dishes to choose from, so that you won't have to fidget over the dishes.

A Parisian breakfast isn't complete without Eggs Benedict, which is one of the dishes we ordered, it was soft and cooked just the way you would

IT'S BACK TO SCHOOL

BACK TO SCHOOL PREPARATIONS FOR MOMMIES

By www.dudemom.com

The school season has begun and it's another year to accomplish.. Some of you may have mixed emotions and others are pretty excited for it. Either way, the beginning of another journey and of course your next few years in the academe should never be boring. You mommies out there may be trying to figure out how to make the start of the school week a fun one for your little ones, and the student readers out there, you're probably excited to finally showcase your newest and coolest set of stationaries to your classmates. That's how it usually goes when you're back in class, let's not deny that. So here are some fun and quirky DIY back to school ideas! It's time to get crafty and funky!

HERE ARE TWO CRAFTY IDEAS THAT WILL KEEP YOU INSPIRED THROUGHOUT YOUR SCHOOL YEAR!

1. CUSTOMISED NOTEBOOKS AND PENS/PENCILS WITH WASHI TAPE!

There are a gazillion things you can do with a washi tape. We could list them down for you, but it will be endless so let's cut it into the easiest way to use your washi tape.

WASHI TAPE PENCILS

Simply wrap around those tapes around your pencils and you have something as good as new!

WASHI TAPE NOTEBOOKS

Simply choose your desired washi tape design and stick them on the cover of your notebook in your desired manner. Easy as ABC and also, mess free! Bid farewell to your old and boring notebooks and say hello to your fun and quirky new ones made by of course, yourself!

2. YOUR VERY OWN GOAL LIST BOARD

It's important to keep the fuel of enthusiasm once you get back to school. And what better way to do that than to create your own board with a list of weekly goals. This way, you'll always be focused and seeing that you've marked off everything on your list for the week is always a great feeling! All you need are sticky notes and cardboards and a dash of your creativity to create your very own designed goal board.

1. Get up early. I know, this one is gonna be a beast for everyone, but if you want to make sure your kids are on time and in gear, you have to make sure you have enough time to wash the ick out of your mouth and slam enough tumblers of coffee to ensure your own coherence. Get up and handle that before it's time for them to join you and you will probably be a happier more patient person. Your kids may even grace you with a smile or two before school!

2. Prep ahead. Lay out the clothing and pack the backpacks the night before. Make lunch ahead if you're cool with soggy bread life. Get everything that can be preemptively organized, so there are fewer possibilities of forgetting something important on the day.

3. Have a real talk about the first day. This is a particularly important tip if you are the mom to a worrier like I am. Get to bed early, cuddle up, even if they work your ears off with their questions, answer everything you can truthfully and make up the rest. I am sort of awesome at storytelling so it works.

4. Give yourself some extra time. By mid September we will be squeaking out all of the moments we can in the bed before school, but for the first week, we like to make sure we have ample time to make getting ready seem like less of a chore. I wake them up 15 minutes earlier than necessary so they have some time on the backend to lounge around and get their minds right for the big day. They might even get crazy and brush their hair pretty if we move expeditiously enough.

5. Promise not to cry. It is a promise you may very well break, and that's cool, but if you tell yourself you won't do it, there is an ever so slightly greater chance that you won't be all snotty nosed and puffy eyed when you meander to the bus stop or pull through the drop off line.

HOW TO COPE UP WITH BACK TO SCHOOL ANXIETY

While many are excited to go back to school and see their friends again, there are also a lot of students who suffer anxiety. Anxious feelings are normal especially during the times of transition or change. Although they may be normal, this should not be taken lightly. It's very important to watch out for your kids especially teens if they are going through this type of trouble as these feelings can be disruptive not only for the child, but for the family too. Children worry about a lot of things when going back to school such as "what if my teachers don't like me?", "will I fit in?" or "what if I don't make any friends?"

HERE ARE A FEW TIPS ON HOW TO DEAL WITH BACK TO SCHOOL ANXIETY WITH YOUR KIDS.

1. ALWAYS LOOK OUT ON YOUR KIDS. Make sure your child is getting enough sleep, eating healthy, exercising and having fun. When kids are properly nourished, they can feel less anxious and can tackle on school worries easier.

2. EMPATHISE. It's very important to always listen to what your child is saying. What may sound silly to you, may sound serious to them. Let them talk about their fears and worries without any judgement. Most of the time, kids only want someone who will listen to them and not lecture them.

3. FOCUS ON THE SOLUTION. By this time, you already know what's bothering your child you can start developing a coping plan. Look at the problem and focus on how you're going to solve it and then execute the solution. Anxious youth are often poor problem solvers and they doubt their ability to cope so it's important to be there for them and guide them by letting them know that there will always be solutions to any kind of problem.

4. BE POSITIVE. If you want to start having a conversation with your kids, begin by talking about a topic that he/she likes. From here onwards, you may be encouraging your child to slowly open up to you without them realizing it. Always shower them with words on encouragement too and redirect their worries to the positives.

ONLINE SHOPPING HACKS

Just as with physical shopping, in online shopping there are smarter ways for consumers to get their dose of retail therapy. While this is an easy way to be able to shop in comfort, there are some risks involved, but as long as you are taking all of the proper precautions, you shouldn't have anything to worry about. UAE based e-commerce platform awok.com has a few tips for online shopping. Ulugbek Yuldashev, Managing Director of Awok.com has the below guideline for online shoppers in the UAE;

1. Bookmark reliable shopping sites, as sometimes relying on search engine results can lead one to malicious websites.
2. Ignore suspicious offers sent via email since they may contain links or attachments that lead to system infection.
3. Always verify unbelievable offers which can lead to web threats.
4. Double check payment URLs that starts with https://
5. Sign up for the newsletter because sometimes the best deals are often found through email.
6. Use social media for research as it can play a pivotal role in your hunt to discover awesome deals and offers.

10 ESSENTIAL TIPS FOR SUMMER HAIR CARE

Dr. Dimitrios Ziakas,
M.D., DHI clinic UAE

We have all experienced a bad hair day! Sun, heat, and humidity, not to mention chlorine and salt water — challenging all hair types, from curly to wavy to straight, leaving some of us with unmanageable, dry and even damaged hair. While all of these are reasons enough to lead to a bad hair day and cause long-term damage, a little pre-emptive care is all your hair needs to stay lush and beautiful! Here are some tips to make sure you have luscious hair all throughout summer.

DETOX Hair care starts with YOU. Maintain a well-balanced diet in your daily routine. For example, a high intake of dietary fat can increase oil on the skin which can lead to greasy hair, so it's best to avoid it. Include as many fresh fruits and vegetables in your diet as you can to maintain those lustrous locks.

USE A SHOWER FILTER Using a shower filter helps remove any impurities in water which can directly damage the hair follicle.

MINIMIZE STRESS OR DE-STRESS Stress is a key factor that aids in hair loss. Whether or not hair loss is genetic, stress can work as a trigger to speed up the hair loss process.

GOOD HYGIENE By maintaining your hygiene, your body is more prone to absorb Vitamin D levels and promote healthy hair growth. This can be done through having a healthy diet, exercise and shower regularly.

OPT FOR A WASH EVERY OTHER DAY Don't wash your hair as frequent during the harsh summer days. Opt for a wash with only your conditioner, rather than shampoo.

DRINK ENOUGH FLUIDS While you may be doing all of the above to protect your hair from the sun, if you're not drinking enough water, you're not going to achieve anything. Your hair, and your skin, will benefit immensely from the amount of water you drink so, keeping your hair healthy and leaving you hydrated.

BRUSH YOUR HAIR Brush your hair regularly. This will minimize tangles and prevent breakage (which can lead to split ends) that can occur when you brush your hair post-shower and can have a great effect on your hair volume in the long run.

MINIMISE USE OF HAIR PRODUCTS Minimise the use of hair products, such as gels, hairspray or any other product that may have high sulphates. These products directly cause dryness to the hair and make it weak.

TAKE PRECAUTIONS Be aware of any balding or thinning areas on your scalp. This can happen as early as your 20s, so if you're noticing this, make an appointment and DHI can provide you with a solution.

DO YOUR RESEARCH If you are looking into hair restoration, know it's a lifetime investment. Do your research and consult your doctors at DHI before making a decision.

GINGHAM LOVE

We loved seeing this lovable plaid pattern, also known as gingham, grace the runways for this year's spring season. Nonetheless, it's still a fashion staple, even though summer is about to end and fall is nearing our midst. So without further ado, let these stylish bloggers show you exactly how you can rock your own gingham OOTD.

FRESH FACE

It seems that the humidity is here to stay, which means that it's best to forego heavy and thick make-up. Instead opt for a natural look, focusing more on letting your skin breathe, and making those eyes and lips pop instead.

Even in an island paradise, the evidence that one is in an Islamic country is all around you. We notice the Maldiven women wearing hijabs or niqabs (headscarves) as a reflection of their faith and dedication to modesty. Local men also make efforts to dress with modesty in mind as they walk alongside each other in their long white shirts, pants, and caps. According to the constitution, it's impossible for a non-Muslim to be considered a citizen of the Maldives. Having traveled through Indonesia and Malaysia earlier in the year, the local dress wasn't anything we took notice of other than to sympathize with those having to deal with the equatorial sun in all that clothing.

MALDIVES: WHERE THE OCEAN HAS NO MEMORY

By: Matthew Mansfield

The influence of Sunni Islam in the Maldives is evident before our plane even touches down on the tarmac at Male's Ibrahim Nasir International Airport. The Cathay Pacific flight attendants hands us custom forms where we read the rules against entering the country with pornography, alcohol, firearms, and pork products.

After disembarking and finding the driver for the transit hotel, we make our way to the counter for the Conrad Maldives to confirm our

CONRAD MALDIVES RESORT

One of the highlights at the Conrad is snorkeling with the marine life around the coral reefs on the far side of the main island. While swimming over the reefs you feel this great sense of discovery at the world opening up beneath the waves. The deafening sound of coral being eaten, with a snap and pop by schools of fish with such exquisite composites of color only a painter or poet could dream of, that permeates the silence of the sea.

There are moments where you feel entirely helpless as the ocean's current slowly pulls you out by the force of an invisible hand beneath the waves. Each entry into the beguiling surf stiffens our confidence as we begin to swim farther afield from the safe, white sand beaches to the edge of the abyss where the coral drops into the dark deep.

It's in these quiet and dense parts of the ocean, where even a few lone rays of the sun are seldom permitted, where we make a tacit bargain with the sea to witness its fragile beauty. Across the sharpened edges of orange, white, and brown coral we find ourselves swimming amidst a school of sapphire colored fish, catching sight of a solemn puffer fish or finding ourselves facing the benign grace of a shy reef shark the majestic nature of it all never stops; even after leaving the water.

travel to the resort the following morning by seaplane. Due to our late flight from Hong Kong, we prearranged to stay at what's known as a 'transit' hotel outside the capital of Male. A great number of visitors make use of the transit hotels for a night before heading to their intended resort destination.

The vast majority of the 8 million annual foreign visitors never make it beyond the airport or the transit hotels to the many islands scattered throughout the Indian Ocean. In total, about 1900 or more coral islands compose the island nation of the Maldives. The local population's ethnic identity originates either from Southern India or Sri Lanka and represents a long history of maritime history and culture.

With a history of inhabitation stretching back thousands of years, this island destination has been known to a great many travelers who brought with them their commerce and new ideas of thought and religion in exchange for cowry shells(1). For a long period of time, the Maldives was a Buddhist stronghold before the introduction of Sunni Islam in the 12th century by Arab traders.

GAMER'S PARADISE

For all of you gamers out there, put your controller down and listen to good news. Games 15 is coming back to Dubai from the 10th – 12th of September. This event is a haven for all gamers, it features the latest video games sponsored by video game leaders such as Sony Playstation and Xbox and so on. Fans will have the chance to get hands on with the latest games, some ahead of their release dates. READ managed to get a hold of one of the organisers of the big gaming event, who delves deep into what we can expect.

WOULD YOU SEE GAMES 15 (OR GAMES 16, 17, ETC) FOR THAT MATTER BECOME SOMETHING SIMILAR IN SCOPE AND MAGNITUDE TO E3 OR GAMESCOM OR PAX?

That is definitely the plan! We want to develop the Games Middle East brand into the gaming event for the region, incorporating the best elements of the biggest international events, while adding our special vibe that gives attendees the opportunity to have a great weekend out.

WOULD "GAMES" EVER BE A PLATFORM FOR LAUNCHING CERTAIN GLOBALLY-ANTICIPATED TITLES?

As we grow, we want to grow that aspect of Games Middle East the most. We already have a couple of publisher level guests at the event that will be making announcements that would be global firsts this year, so there is already an element of that starting to develop – we would be looking to make Games in Dubai the gaming hub for the region.

DO YOU SEE THE ARAB WORLD AS A RIPE MARKET FOR THE GAMING INDUSTRY? HOW CAN YOU CAPITALIZE ON THAT?

This market has always been a gamers market, they just haven't had the right platform to express themselves. With the advent of Games 15, we're looking to open up the gates to gamers no matter what they like and help develop the community all across the region. Many people still don't see games for what they are as a creative work of art.

DO YOU THINK YOU CAN HELP CHANGE THAT?

What a lot of people don't realise is that we are all gamers now in some form or the other (everyone probably plays a game at least on their smart device) Games, like other entertainment mediums, are becoming a platform to express views and make statements, move you emotionally and much more. As we have been doing for the pop-culture community with Middle East Film and Comic Con, we have to broaden the audience for the Games Middle East events in the region and develop the appreciation for gaming my more individuals – especially for the many developer that we have based out of the region.

WHAT'S SO SPECIAL ABOUT THIS YEAR'S GAMES CONVENTION? WHAT DID YOU STRIVE FOR TO MAKE IT DIFFERENT FROM PREVIOUS ONES?

We've tried to broaden the appeal of the event to both hardcore gamers and the more casual ones who are just looking for a fun weekend out with the family. We have also teamed up with the largest eSports events company in the world, ESL to create a pro-gaming tournament with cash prize fund of USD 250,000! For the first time, fans will have the chance to watch and meet eight of the top teams in the world compete for victory and glory. We've got lots of other activities as well, with table top gaming, regional games developers, performers, celebrity guests and so much more – Games 15 is shaping up to be the biggest and best gaming event we've seen to date!

SLEEPING DILEMMAS

If you're having trouble sleeping, don't worry, because you're not alone. According to statistics, 22% of people sleep poorly at night, 47% of people say stress or worry is what keeps them awake at night and none too surprisingly, 49% of people have never taken steps to help them sleep better. It's an old wives tale that counting sheep and listening to lullabies will send you off to dreamland, but then again, if it does work, it can only get you so far. Here are some common bedtime mistakes you might not even be aware you're doing, and how to avoid them.

CAFFEINATED MIDNIGHT SNACKING

Caffeine is a stimulant and in moderate doses, can block sleep neurotransmitters causing insomnia. Refined sugars can stress the organs in charge of hormone regulation – causing you to wake in the night as your levels fluctuate.

Solution: Snack on foods that contain tryptophan. This amino acid is needed by the body to produce serotonin, which in turn makes melatonin – a hormone that helps control your sleep cycles. Foods that are high in tryptophan include yogurt, milk, banana, eggs and turkey.

SLEEP DEBT

There's a common misconception about sleep debt: you accumulate lost hours of sleep that you can pay back later on, and your body will be fine.

Solution: Sleep debt isn't a straight balance. Most people only usually need two or three good night's sleep, to get back to normal after a serious sleep deprivation.

SLEEPING WITH PETS

According to research, 63% of pet owners who share their bed or bedroom with their pets, experience poor sleep quality.

Solution: Keep your pets in a different room. If they're exceptionally noisy, consult your vet to rule out any medical problems – they might be making sleep mistakes themselves!

HITTING THE SNOOZE BUTTON

Any extra sleep you get is fragmented, making it low quality.

You also prepare the body for a new sleep cycle that you won't have time to finish, resulting in fatigue throughout the day.

Solution: Set your alarm for when you actually need to get up. Try to set it for the same time every day, this regularity will hopefully mean you should wake up without the need for an alarm.

TECH BED

78% of people use a smartphone, tablet or laptop before going to bed. However, these gadgets emit blue light, which is said to delay the production of melatonin, the sleep-inducing hormone.

Solution: Give yourself a tech curfew and move your electronic devices out of the bedroom altogether.

LEAVING THE T.V. ON

38% of people watch TV to wind down for sleep. However, watching T.V. before bedtime encourages you to stay up later, harming the sleep cycle and leading to poor quality sleep.

Solution: Keep T.V.'s out of the bedroom. Alternatively, listen to the radio to help yourself fall asleep.

OVERNIGHT BREAKFAST

Ingredients:

1 cup / 125 g fresh or thawed frozen raspberries
1 pinch ground vanilla
3 tbsp desiccated coconut, unsweetened
3 tbsp chia seeds
1 cup / 240 ml plant milk (we prefer almond, coconut or oat milk)

Toppings:

Nut butter, Hemp seeds, Kiwi, Fresh mint

Instructions:

Mash the berries in a bowl using a fork. Add vanilla, coconut and chia seeds and combine. Pour over the milk and mix. Set aside to soak for minimum 30 minutes or overnight in the fridge. Serve in a bowl or jar topped with nut butter, hemp seeds, fruit and mint.

ARE YOU DEHYDRATED?

Just because you aren't feeling thirsty, doesn't mean that your body doesn't need or want water, one of the quickest ways to tell if you are indeed dehydrated is by monitoring your fluid loss by checking the colour of your urine. It should be pale yellow and not dark yellow, too smelly or cloudy. Below is a simple chart guide or urine colours and what they may indicate.

TRANSPARENT

You're drinking a lot of water, you may want to cut back.

PALE STRAW COLOUR

You're normal, healthy and dehydrated.

TRANSPARENT YELLOW

You're normal.

DARK YELLOW

Normal, but drink some water soon.

AMBER OR HONEY

Your body isn't getting enough water. Drink some now.

SYRUP OR BROWN ALE

You could have liver disease or severe dehydration. Drink water and see your doctor if it persists.

PINK TO REDDISH

Recently been eating blueberries rhubarb or beets? If not, contact your doctor it might be some urinary tract infection or prostate problem.

ORANGE

You may not be drinking enough water or you could have a liver or bile duct condition, or it could be food dye. Contact your doctor.

PURPLE

There's no such thing as purple urine.

Note: If you are taking medications, it may make your urine darker than normal. It is best you see your doctor or ask him about this when taking in any new medications.

don't try to mask it with a fake sense of confidence. This kind of knowledge breeds self-awareness, a main factor of emotional intelligence and an important trait that most employers look for.

BEING A KNOW-IT-ALL

Many candidates believe that they need to have the answers to almost every question. The reality is different though. Your ability to say "I don't know" to a question can be appealing to many employers. It shows that you are genuine and that you don't try to pretend that you know everything. Employers want to hire independent and self-sufficient people who can go the extra mile to find solutions. Acting like a know-it-all can hinder your chances of finding a good job.

YOU HAVE A BAD ONLINE REPUTATION

Like it or not, building a great personal brand online can have a major impact on the success of your job search efforts. But social media can be your best friend and your worst enemy. Many employers these days research candidates on social media and networking websites hoping to learn more about how candidates behave online. Your personal brand is reflected in any posts you've written, your pictures and comments. Employers prefer candidates who have consistent online and offline images.

5 WAYS TO TURN OFF EMPLOYERS

Job searches are all about positioning yourself as the top candidate. We all know the common mistakes that we should avoid when applying to jobs. Whether it's a badly formatted CV, arriving late for the interview or bad mouthing previous employers, these are some of the bad moves that can stand in your way of landing the job. However, there are a lot of other things that you may not have considered but can be equally damaging to your image. Akhtaboot is here to highlight the top 5 job seeker behaviors that might be turning off employers!

YOU'RE NOT LIKABLE

Personal characteristics are usually not part of the job description. But when it comes down to choosing the ideal candidate, the deciding factor may actually be "likability". No one wants to work with an arrogant, negative, troublemaker who won't be able to get along with his colleagues. So if you fail to highlight your ability to get along with your team, don't expect a call back.

SOUNDING TOO DESPERATE

Job search is a long, demanding process that is filled with disappointments. Even if you've been looking for a job for several months with no success, you shouldn't let your frustration show during interviews. Think like an employer; do you want to hire the person with the amazing track record, a great personality and the potential to grow within the company? Or do you want to hire the angry, frustrated candidate whose primary concern is to simply get paid? Eagerness to learn and grow impresses an employer; desperation is a major turnoff.

NEVER ADMITTING WEAKNESSES

While displaying self-confidence is a good trait when it comes to job search, going overboard with power games during interviews can take a toll on your likability. Smart candidates recognize that having weaknesses is only human, so they

CHOOSING YOUR TABLET

We often find Tablets out there in the stores which are not Apple or Samsung, where some people probably don't pay any attention to. However they can be the tablet you are actually looking for. On the heels of announcing its new high-end ARCHOS Diamond S smartphone, the French brand ARCHOS is pleased to announce the ARCHOS Diamond Tab, its first Octa-Core 4G/LTE tablet and its first tablet in the Diamond line. The ARCHOS Diamond Tab is truly a flagship product of the ARCHOS brand. Impressively, it features 4G/LTE connectivity and dual Band Wi-Fi, putting it in a superior league of tablets. Connectivity shouldn't be sacrificed on a larger device, and customers will enjoy the absolute best cellular and Wi-Fi data speeds available on the market today. This device also features 3GB of RAM and 32GB of storage for apps, games, movies, and more. The ARCHOS Diamond Tab boasts a 7.9" IPS screen with a resolution that clocks in at more than 2K at 2048 x 1536 pixels, which means even the tiniest details are displayed crisply and clearly.

PERFECT SOUNDS FROM SAMSUNG

Samsung Electronics announced three additions to its Wireless Audio 360 speaker range – the R5, R3 and R1 models which will be displayed at IFA 2015. The omni-directional speakers feature a new built-in tap-and-swipe user interface and an improved Multiroom app for customers' smartphones, tablets and smartwatches. The R5, R3 and R1 models follow the widely praised R7 and R6 speakers in Samsung's Wireless Audio 360 line-up, and offer the same high-quality, balanced sound, and premium table-top design that enables them to fit seamlessly into any home. The R5, R3 and R1 models also exclusively feature new physical control options for a hassle-free and intuitive user experience. Consumers can now change the volume, play, pause, or select a different music source all with a gentle touch, tap or swipe on top of the speaker.

SUPERIOR SOUND QUALITY

Phiaton Corporation has announced the availability of the PS 202 NC earphones, which is designed for travellers, business commuters, or anyone looking for peace and quiet. The PS 202 NC earphones feature a sleek, brushed metal design along with a wide-range of features including newly developed 14.3 mm drivers, active noise-cancellation of up to 95% of ambient background noise, and an inline mic and remote.

A PHONE WITH TWO FRONTS

Yota Devices has announced the new affordable price of the YotaPhone 2, the world's first "two-fronts" smartphone with the Always-On Display feature. Starting on 1st September, the smartphone will be available at a reduced price of AED 1,799 in the UAE. The phone was originally priced at AED 2,555, but with the new price, can get extra display area, with extra readability and usability thanks to E-Ink technology, for significantly less than the cost of other Android flagships. YotaPhone 2 features the latest Android 5.0 Lollipop and sports the durable Gorilla Glass 3 on both sides.

GEARS OF WAR: ULTIMATE EDITION

Gears of War: Ultimate Edition is a remastering of the original, acclaimed first game in the Gears of War shooter franchise. Pains-takingly remastered in 1080p and modernized for Xbox One, Gears of War: Ultimate Edition is packed full of new content, including five campaign chapters never released on Xbox, as well as early access to the Gears of War 4 multiplayer beta.

AN AWARDED CAMERA

The Nikon D5500 is the recipient of the European Consumer DSLR Camera 2015-2016 award from EISA Awards 2015-2016, as proudly announced by Nikon Middle East FZE Ltd today. The honour from European Imaging and Sound Association (EISA) makes it the second major award for the D5500 which picked up the TIPA Awards 2015 Best Digital SLR Entry Level Award earlier this year. The Nikon D5500, offering an effective pixel count of 24.2-megapixel, is equipped with an EXPEED 4 image-processing engine, and a Nikon DX-format CMOS sensor that is built without an optical low-pass filter. Superior image quality and rich power of expression are produced with these notable features of the DSLR. The D5500 is also equipped with a touch screen vari-angle LCD monitor that supports intuitive touch operation, as well as a built-in Wi-Fi® function for easy connectivity. Further boosting the distinctiveness of the camera is the adoption of a monocoque structure to help make this slim DSLR the world's lightest1 with preserving strength and durability.

THE IRON GIANT, HINTS AT SEQUEL

Vin Diesel thinks there will be a sequel The Iron Giant. The actor used his Facebook page to promote The Iron Giant: Signature Edition, which is a Blu-ray release of the 1999 movie. The Signature Edition trailer was captioned with the revelation that the titular Iron Giant is one of Diesel's favourite characters. "I have been very lucky to have played so many interesting characters... one of the first and one of my favourites is... the Iron Giant." Diesel teased The Iron Giant sequel in a postscript for the caption. "Don't be surprised when you hear [Warner Bros.] announce the sequel." It's difficult to tell whether Diesel is joking, hoping, or actually announcing something. He has used his Facebook page in the past to announce a sequel to Riddick, but even if there isn't a sequel to The Iron Giant, he still has similarly succinct voice work as Groot in the Marvel Cinematic Universe.

BILL MURRAY ON GHOSTBUSTERS REBOOT APPEARANCE

Vulture spoke to Murray this weekend and asked him what changed his mind after all these years. "I thought about it for a very long time," Murray said. "Like, many, many months. No, that's not right. I was seriously thinking about this for years, really ... It kept eating at me, and I really respect those girls, and then I started to feel like if I didn't do this movie, maybe somebody would write a bad review or something, thinking there was some sort of disapproval [on my part]." Murray also acknowledged that for decades he wasn't interested in returning to the world of the Ghostbusters. "That's true, I wasn't," Murray said, while pointing to talent like Wiig and McCarthy as one of the reasons that he changed his mind. "I like those girls a lot," he said. "I mean, I really do. They are tough to say no to, and Paul is a real nice fellow." Ghostbusters will be released on July 15, 2016.

ANDREW GARFIELD SUPPORTS SPIDEY FOR MARVEL

Andrew Garfield, who played Spider-Man for two films, says he was pushing for the character to go under the Marvel umbrella long before the deal was struck. The actor told Uproxx that he's excited to see the Marvel take on Spider-Man, now that Sony and Marvel Studios have struck a deal to cross their universes. "I've been petitioning to hook up with Marvel since the beginning, so I'm really glad they're finally doing it," he said. He also maintained that he was never in talks to continue as the character, but declined to say more. If the Amazing Spider-Man franchise had continued, Garfield said it would've gone to "some pretty heavy places" following the dire events of the second movie, but he seems at ease with his part as the character ending. "It wasn't meant to be," he said. "As I say, I'm just really excited that I get to watch."

JLAW AND AMY SCHUMER TEAM UP

The Hunger Games' Jennifer Lawrence and Trainwreck's Amy Schumer, are teaming up for a new comedy which they are writing together and plan on starring in. According to The New York Times, the two stars are currently writing the film. "We play sisters," said Lawrence, who's in the midst of promoting The Hunger Games: Mockingjay, Part 2. "We're almost done writing," she said. "It just flowed out of us. We've got about 100 pages right now." Lawrence added that they're working with Schumer's sister Kim, who helped out with the scripting of Trainwreck, and the Mystique actress seems particularly excited about the comedy project. "Amy and I were creatively made for each other," Lawrence said. "We have different flavours. It's been the most fun experience of my life." As for how the two even teamed up in the first place, it seems Lawrence e-mailed Schumer after seeing Trainwreck. "We started emailing, and then emailing turned to texting," said the actress.

SETTING A NEW STANDARD

Hundai Motor Company has officially launched the All-New Tucson compact SUV in Africa and the Middle East. Offering a bold and athletic design, new technological features and class-leading driving performance, the new model has been designed to set new standards for its sector and provide an enticing alternative that ticks all the boxes for young families looking for a highly versatile car. Prices for the All-New Tucson will start from AED72,000 in the UAE market, with the model available in GL or GLS trim levels and with a variety of specifications. By combining competitive pricing with a model that embodies the Hyundai Motor Company's modern premium brand direction, the third generation All-New Tucson is perfectly placed to build on the popularity of its predecessor, which was the company's third biggest-selling model across the region and the volume leader in the compact SUV segment in 2014. The equally stylish and refined interior benefits from the careful attention paid by designers to the ergonomics and use of high quality and soft-touch materials along with passenger power seats offering unbeatable lumbar support. Additional cabin features include a newly designed dashboard featuring an 8" display and extended super vision cluster and new door trims for a sportier feel.

ENHANCING THE Q3

The Audi Q3, the youngest member of the successful SUV family from Audi, is a practical companion for everyday – an urban model that feels at home anywhere. Its versatile character makes it attractive to a wide range of customers. The redesigned Audi Q3 has now arrived in the Middle East market. Since its market introduction in early 2012, the Q3 model series has been a successful model for the Audi brand. Over 1,920 models have been sold in the region since introduction. Audi is constantly improving good and successful models, therefore the new Audi Q3 model not only features a refreshed design, it also boasts a number of technical innovations. The premium character of the redesigned Audi Q3 is apparent at first glance. The Audi designers have honed the details of the coupe like lines with the characteristic wrap-around tailgate. Dominating horizontal lines up front and in the rear underscore the width and give the Q3 an expressive design.

Volkswagen Middle East welcomes a new addition to the Volkswagen R family this month, with the arrival of the sporty Beetle R-Line. The new model joins the Volkswagen Middle East sporty Volkswagen R model line-up, which currently includes the iconic Golf R, the Scirocco R, and the Touareg, Tiguan and CC R-Line models, developed by Volkswagen R GmbH, a division of Volkswagen responsible for developing sport-tuned models with bold detailing that are aggressive by design. The Beetle R-Line exhibits the sporty Volkswagen R GmbH racing heritage, the bumper features added air intakes front and centre to feed more air to the turbocharged 210 HP 2.0-litre engine. The rear of the car presents a lower diffuser and a large spoiler in addition to R-Line door entry sills. Tying together the powerful look of the R-Line model are the 20-inch "Monterey" alloy wheels, tucked under the muscular fenders.

SPIETH DROPS DOWN

Jordan Spieth missing cut at The Barclays means that he will lose his world number one ranking, making his first stint as No 1 the shortest in golfing history. The 22-year-old was making his first start after climbing on top of Rory McIlroy by being runner-up at the PGA Championship and would have retained top spot with a tied-14th finish or better at Plainfield, but suffered an early exit after an error-filled couple of rounds. Spieth's latest missed cut was only his third in 22 starts over the year of 2015, but it threw him down back to world No 2 below the Northern Irishman.

ROSBERG SEEKS POLE

Nico Rosberg has claimed that he can't afford getting any position other than the pole at Monza as he seeks to overcome a 28-point deficit in the championship. Apparently, the German had an edge on his Mercedes teammate Lewis Hamilton as they were practicing at Spa a couple of weeks ago, but when it mattered in qualifying it was the other Mercedes driver who secured pole position. Rosberg has only beaten Hamilton once this year in qualifying. "The race in Spa was definitely disappointing. My start was not good so I need to work on that and also on finding those extra tenths in qualifying to get back on top there," said Rosberg.

READY TO RUMBLE

Josh Strauss and John Hardie have been named in the Scotland squad for the upcoming World Cup. However Back-row forwards John Barclay and Blair Cowan will not make the 31-man squad. Scotland are to open their World Cup Pool B campaign against Japan in Gloucester on 23 September. They will then go against the United States in Leeds before Vern Cotter's side take on South Africa and then Samoa in Newcastle. "We're very pleased to name the 31 and we're confident these players will represent Scotland well in the Rugby World Cup," Cotter stated. "It's been a tough but rewarding two months. We're proud of the effort everyone has put in to this point.

NOT A BAD BOY

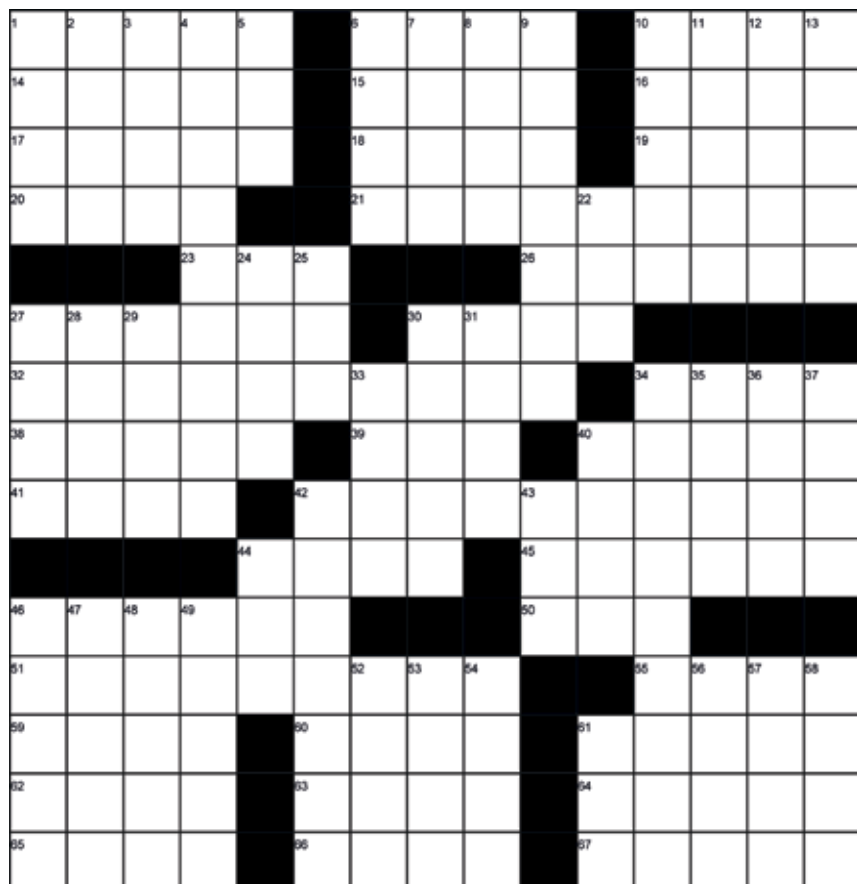

Nick Kyrgios insisted that his bad-boy reputation is ridiculous but admits he has learned the merits of keeping his mouth shut. Kyrgios was defeated by Andy Murray 7-5, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1 in the US Open first round last week to end a chaotic month for the 20-year-old. The Australian made some vulgar remarks about Stan Wawrinka's girlfriend. However Kyrgios has expressed regret for his exchange with Wawrinka but insisted he felt no embarrassment for what happened. "I'd like to think that I'm going to learn from it. I think I have," said Kyrgios. Andy Murray on the other hand, admitted that he had to keep his focus during his four-set victory over Nick Kyrgios.

DE GEA STAYS AT UNITED

Manchester United is blaming Real Madrid for the collapse of David de Gea's proposed move to the Spanish club before the transfer deadline. The Spaniard will now remain at Old Trafford until the next transfer season in January at least after paperwork problems meant his £29.5 transfer broke down minutes before the deadline. Madrid on the other hand, stated their part of the story pointing fingers at United over delays firstly in opening talks and then in processing documents for Keylor Navas, the Costa Rica 'keeper United demanded as part of the deal. But the Red Devils insisted that there were no talks on the matter until Real submitted a bid, something they say did not happen until the same day the transfer doors close.

SPOT THE DIFFERENCE

What's in your stars?

The Read. astrologer tells you what you can expect over the next seven days.

ARIES

(MAR 21 - APR 20)

Some days move along lickety-split, some days just don't. No need to read anything into it. It's the nature of space and time to be a little erratic. And, sure enough, you're going to be running around like the proverbial headless chicken.

TAURUS

(APR 21 - MAY 21)

You're feeling so good at the start of the week. And you don't know what to do with yourself. The sun will be shining on you. Butterflies are going to follow you around. Birds will chirp in your ears. This is the beginning of a long, exciting week.

GEMINI

(MAY 22 - JUN 21)

You thought this was going to be smooth sailing. Turns out, the water is choppy than you expected. Communicate what you feel and need. There are enough hands on deck to help you get through and there are a lot of good things on the horizon.

CANCER

(JUN 22 - JUL 23)

You are charming in any social situation, but dinner parties are where you especially shine. Remember, though: Sometimes saying very little is more alluring. And this is just going to be one of those weeks when you don't feel like saying a whole lot.

LEO

(JUL 24 - AUG 23)

The system is big and complicated, and it's important you don't get stuck in the middle. Make your intentions known. This is your career you're talking about. You have more than a small stake in it. And it's not an act of arrogance to assert yourself.

VIRGO

(AUG 24 - SEP 23)

This week, you're going to be lost in philosophical ideas. It's an unusual headspace for you, and you may find yourself eating in unusual places, too. Nevertheless, you're going to get a lot done. Even in your dreamiest state, you're remarkably productive.

LIBRA

(SEP 24 - OCT 23)

Just because the outward world is fine and dandy doesn't mean that the people around you are fine and dandy. Some of the people in your life are going to be downright cranky. That's just about the last thing you need. Be nice, but avoid them at all costs.

SCORPIO

(OCT 24 - NOV 22)

Whatever you're feeling, try to be open to this other person at the outset of the week. This is not a business relationship, this is a personal relationship, and there's a huge difference, which you'll notice on Wednesday and Thursday.

SAGITTARIUS

(NOV 23 - DEC 21)

Feeling a tad overwhelmed? Make yourself a to-do list and get cracking! Once you start crossing things off your list you'll feel so much better. When things have calmed down a bit, a friend is going to invite you out for a night on the town.

CAPRICORN

(DEC 22 - JAN 20)

Someone's going to cajole you into playing a game you haven't played since you were a kid, and it's going to be way more fun than you remembered. It's going to be a blast, but you might feel like two or three of your friends are turning out to be a little flaky.

AQUARIUS

(JAN 21 - FEB 19)

An old relative is going to try to contact you, probably via an unexpected phone call. They're just calling to say hi, but in the course of the conversation you're going to learn something that makes you think of them in a whole new way.

PISCES

(FEB 20 - MAR 20)

An old love letter is going to come to mind, and it's going to start you pining for a romance that ended quite a while ago. Weird how the past continues to live on in the present, isn't it? And isn't it funny to think about all of the things you used to be so sure of?
